Going Postal

I began this project like I do most of my projects, with some sketches. I sketched two ideas and this was the one I decided to go with. I had written my ideas for colors and images I wanted to include. As I created the final project, I kept it almost exactly as how I envisioned it in my notebook.

This project was interesting. The objective was to make a poster for a song. The tricky part was that you could only use the lyrics with different types of fonts. The use of color was also prohibited, as well.
